INTRODUCTION

Plain language culture, values and behaviors that are common in that group of people, including several under the culture age and sex and religion and religious and sexual orientation and religious diversity in the ability of the therapeutic relationship person, two-way road, enter their own heritage consultants, so should in its cultural routes discovered, in fact, so long as the social positions Cultural references and not considered to be as he is.

More comments from the perspective of cultural adviser, according to Corey Opinions and attitudes

Cultural consultants has the knowledge that are not perspective on the impact of the authorities, bias, in fact, the cultural Counselor of ethnic and racial bias should be towards her comes to create ethnic is well aware.

Knowledge and information

The consultants have the knowledge and the scanning of certain racist and discrimination and stereotypes are well and their beliefs and feelings and attitudes racist themselves are well aware about the clients for whom the impact of skills and strategies for progress.

The intervention methods

This category is necessary to have certain skills have consultants their education.

Cultural advice in terms of steps Sue and Sue Issues and concepts

A complex framework of values and beliefs and expectations and are tolerant of social forces

Consultation with ethnic minority

This was also part of the special instructions) including African Americans, Asian Americans and Spanish descent.

Critical events

A collection of cases of acute problems and issues that is critical of this group.

The principles of intercultural consulting

Effective communication is the Foundation of any relationship is given q.

The aim is simply to help advice references in his acceptance, strengthen self-esteem and control and accepting responsibility for the behavior of the

In the case of a reference can be used from several strategies.

Ongoing assessment and evaluation of your consulting relationship level for each type of relationship advice.

A consultant should be of your thoughts and feelings conscious values and true scientific references with respect to accept it needs not based on its needs.

The consultants should be relative to cultural and gender-based behavior and are sensitive to the values of the patrons.

When their strategies with the needs of consultants coordinate references and compared when a strategy in all of the situations more likely uses their success (Mohammadkhani, 2004).

The relationship between the theory of multicultural counseling and consulting topics

As much as the hidden assumptions behind the theory of value and important people about gender psychology therapists, as well as cultural differences and cultural values is also important, today than before the number that their cultural values with the cultural values of different consultants will be added, an introduction to the theory of psychotherapy and hence the values can help various patrons. Reviews on theories of ourselves, we can ask whether they are in harmony with the values of the values of the culture. For example, if you do not have to expose the cultural feelings for others emphasized how can a theory of a particular emphasis on the identification of use?

Testimonials reflect the culture and history of the theorists, Sigmund Freud in the late nineteenth century and early twentieth century would result in a reasonable environment, we ask that question is to what extent Freud theory under its cultural (Feiroozbkht, 2007).

Multicultural career counseling

Increase understanding of cultural issues in the development of the career path 1 led to the creation and development of the theoretical perspectives of professional advice about more intercultural. The theory of the growth of the career path needs to explain the views and patrons in different cultures are demographic changes career path consultants as well as various mosaics. That each has different customs and is therefore advice should be a single career path for the next from towards a multidimensional cultural change to the culture (Mac Kan, 2003).

Multicultural professional advice of collaboration between people and on the other hand the specific support of racial minorities will mean.

Types of professional counseling techniques

The first case corresponds to the time when the public is different with each other nationalities

The second mode is the same nationality (Zeks, 2002).

Systems theory of career

Systems theory to explain much of human behavior is offered, systemic theory of physics is the field of humanities, Patton and McMahon (2006). The systems theory of career development career as a social and environmental impact - and puts the three influences:

1 interpersonal variables such as age and personality variables such as family and environmental impacts, such as the Geography 3 content of the consolidated external and internal factors, it is obvious that a systematic approach to the phenomenon of cultural references and an efficient components is noteworthy.

RESULTS

The rules in a family system

The family may have their own rules of life in the range and the grandmother and grandfather and an aunt and the aunt and Play an important role in the choice of career path and choice of education and different issues than other cultures ,A lot of pressures between cultural norms and family norms. But the main concern, and the family's eyebrow, Multicultural family and opinions may be compared to the process of deciding their career path than to have a single cultural family, on this basis, therefore, of such cultural diversity may be a different dimension of the child family instructions for creating educational and career path that does not affect him.

Gender stereotypes

Different expectations of career path consultants have male and female sexes) (their job is now well aware that he should be compared to the culture of the family and his job according to what have a good theoretical knowledge as well as even the consultants also career path should be relative to how to fit a person's with his wife and family, as well as information on cultural differences, so also there is in the role of parents and even women's perspective than To the pregnancy and the treatment is different from other cultural culture.

Cultural areas

Cultural character, cultural transmission through creating clients, in addition to the process of acculturation includes transfer of culture and supporting a culture of discrimination approach and in front of the dagger and the margin for racing other cultures (Berry, 1997) .

Inform the public about their feelings towards greater understanding leads to a culture, to the process of acculturation and personalize the career path. Cultural variation in the classification of the consultant group to be sensitive to cultural changes is important as an example of cultural groups in the Middle East, such as the family traditions and spirituality and the collective set of expectations, but at the same time very large differences in terms of race, religion, language, culture and attitude of the smaller family also need to understand and revelation.

Spoken language

Language is a source of identity for many people, the sense of identity with the use of languages of education and languages can be a cultural transmission of culture to other cultures as well as the particular dialect, even report a language can also be more cultural identity for the RFC number. In addition, the language reference at home with Ann speaks with a language with which to work and that the University is in conflict, the forces of the market the work de Rahall earn more multilingual skills are needed in the market has been discovered.

Legal status

The question of the situation in order to facilitate the professional adviser farm, for example do to travel to different parts of the legal problem is whether or not you? Do you have to be able to travel abroad and return? What is your opinion about your career choice due to the displacement of yourself (Kaksli, 2007).

DISCUSSION

This is an important topic about which to fit under the heading of cultural content, between the advice seems to be cultural advice even as ABC in Iran and still did not find application here can be understand that the study had about this component and the master and doctoral students of the important have been unaware, on the other hand is also considering that Iran is the first component of the immigrant countries. Pakistani, Afghan refugees and Arabs so ethnic and cultural diversity and religious and have a lot. Bakhtaran, Fars and Arab ,Turkmen and Balouch, thus the dominant culture with the interactions of cultures, each country may be encountering problems that can be found in their cultural context and attention to their cultural structure, in order to help resolve the issue picked them step by step.

On the other hand the dominant cultural conditions in the country is such that the people of ethnic prejudices and racist thoughts are great and this is a big obstacle on the way of the influence of different cultures and cultural advice in the country, one of the obstacles for the people having the stereotype role abroad, for example requires that the lower prestige jobs and have revenues with k, in career advice This problem has to be between the cultural definition and common sense to solve it step by step.

Seems to be someone who offers cultural, career advice should have several features and attributes that distinguish her from the others, is the first high profile attributes and familiarity with the common language of the world and different cultures, and the second factor or the ability to be very high in his acceptance, the person who has to individual career consulting between cultural and creative I must with myths and proverbs and folk culture and dynamic it Be creative to be able to offer advice, as well as meeting the role. A total of professional cultural consulting is a very interesting topic that can be the soul searchers consulting impregnation of the Iranian and pay more attention to this variable can be used in order to better solve problems is an important step in the counseling room patrons.
